

Junction City Art Association Membership Introduction & Application

The Junction City Art Association is a committed group of local artists who meet together monthly, share their work with one another, host guest speakers, coordinate community art shows and encourage young artists by hosting a yearly art competition.

We are always excited to meet new local artists who share the same passion for bringing fine art of all kinds to our community.

We have a structure of elected officials to help our meetings and events run smoothly. There is a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, and a communications manager.

There is a $25 per year membership fee due at the beginning of each year. A membership card for the year is issued after each payment.

Members are required to attend at least three meetings per year to maintain active member status and to qualify to participate in any JCAA art shows, including the Scandinavian Festival art show.

JCAA art meetings are on the second Thursday of every month at Fletchall Hall (195 W. 5th Ave) in Junction City throughout the year (except for during August for the Scandinavian Festival Art Show.)

The JCAA has a member-voted jurying process to decide if a potential member's art is something we consider to be fine art. We do not bring in members who only create what is generally thought of as crafts.
